

The Pacific Commercial Advertiser

ESTABLISHED JULY 2, 1858

HONOLULU, HAWAII TERRITORY THURSDAY, APRIL 14, 1910.

PRICE FIVE CENTS.

SLOWLY THEY ACQUIRE SENSE

Russians Are Drifting Family by Family Away From Iwilei Discomforts.

CAMP IS GETTING WORSE DeKerberg Visits Wailuku and Finds Nothing to Complain About There.

The best among the Russian families are segregating themselves gradually from the bunch, staying mostly around the city or applying for plantation jobs at the planters' labor sheds. Yesterday a dozen or so families have presented them for work and today as many as can be provided with houses will be taken to Ewa. Others will be taken on as soon as accommodations can be found for them. Around the city there are many Russians at work and the situation, in general, is clarifying itself.

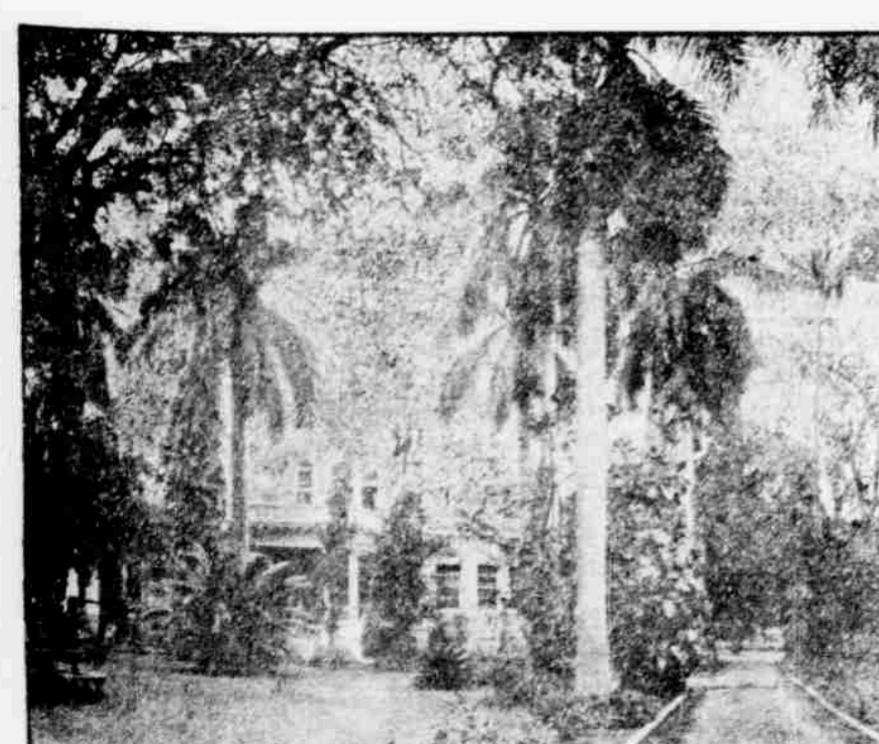

Conditions around the Iwilei camp are very far from satisfactory. The absence of any attempt at sanitation brings daily closer the day when an epidemic of some kind will break out, provided the number encamped there remains anywhere near stationary. City Physician Mackall fears an epidemic, and has no funds whereby to meet such, even if the county authorities feel like authorizing him to take whatever steps he may deem necessary. The situation would be very much worse, however, if the number in camp was not steadily decreasing.

Finds Plantations Satisfactory.

Commissioner de Kerberg, who is here representing the Russian government, has been looking into plantation conditions on this island. He has visited Wailuku, where a number of Russians are at work, and finds there that the laborers are well treated, comfortably housed and are in a position to live better and make more money than they ever were in Manchuria. He interviewed a number of the laborers on the ground and these had no complaints to make.

(Continued on Page Four.)

CAMPBELL HOUSE FOR ARMY HEADQUARTERS

CAMPBELL MANSION ON WHICH UNCLE SAM IS THOUGHT TO HAVE HIS EYE FOR A MILITARY HEADQUARTERS

While General Hartman's headquarters were being prepared for his arrival, the military authorities were still trying to find a suitable place for the department heads. The house which they were considering was the old residence of the late Mr. Campbell, and the statement was made that the house would be ideal for a department headquarters. In addition to offices being located there, there was a commanding officer and his staff, and the department heads.

The attention of one of the military officers was called to the old residence when they were noticing the large mansion and its spacious grounds and the statement was made that the house would be ideal for a department headquarters. In addition to offices being located there, there was a commanding officer and his staff, and the department heads.

The military authorities have made a statement on the Campbell estate, emphasizing the fact that the house has not been prepared for the use of the commanding officer and his staff, and the department heads.

ROYAL HONORS FOR ROYALTY

Uncle of the Emperor of China Arrives Tomorrow From Orient.

MILITARY WILL TURN OUT ESTATE VALUED AT $2500

Welcome to America to Be Given by Officials of Local and Federal Government.

SERIOUS CHARGE AGAINST JUDGE

Is Alleged to Have Deceived a Dying Man and Cheated the Heir.

ESTATE VALUED AT $2500

Court Proceedings Brought to Have Dethroned Deed Declared of No Worth.

A serious charge is made against Judge Archibald Mahanui of Waialua in a suit brought in the circuit court yesterday by Conine and Doerr, attorneys for Daniel Kamokuhauken. Mahanui is charged with no less an offense than deceiving a dying man for the purpose of defrauding the latter's heir. Through the undue influence of Mahanui and Kasenoka Kaka, the bill in equity alleges, the dying man was induced to sign a deed which put into their hands seventy-three acres of land, valued at $2500.

Kamokuhauken claims that he is the brother of Keawemahauken, who died September 25 of last year, and that he is the sole heir to the real property of deceased, while Lizzie McNamee, foster grandchild of the deceased, is heir to the personal property.

When Keawemahauken was in a dying condition, the bill of complaint repeats, Kaka, accompanied by Judge Mahanui, tried to get him to sign a deed making them joint heirs to the seventy-three acres of land. The dying man, however, refused to do so, saying he intended the complainant to get the land.

Upon this, Kaka and Mahanui went away, but came back the next day and promised him that if he would sign the deed they would at once sign another deed transferring the land to complainant, Kamokuhauken, Keawemahauken, being in a dying condition and very weak, was prevailed upon to do as they asked him. Then he died. The face of the deed pretends that the property was turned over to the respondents for $250, but complainant claims that not a cent was paid by them. Neither have they, in conformity with their promise to the dying man, transferred the property to the complainant.

Complainant charges flatly that the action of Mahanui and Kaka was an attempt to cheat and defraud him. He asks that the respondents be compelled to come into court and answer to the charges against them and that they be compelled to turn over the property to him, the rightful heir.

BRECKONS AFTER A. P. A. CARD MAN

The Discovery of the Type Will Probably Lead to an Indictment.

United States District Attorney Breckon and the federal grand jury are still busy trying to find out who sent the indecent letter to R. K. Benone and flooded the town with anti-Brown Catholic literature. The discovery last Tuesday that the A. P. A. cards were printed at the office of the Nippon Lin leads them to believe that they will soon be able to find the man who ordered them printed, and Breckon believes that he will be found to be the man guilty of mailing indecent letters.

It is not probable that the day will be held to account for printing the cards, though under the law they could be held to answer. Mr. Breckon, however, faces the view that the Japanese community knowing nothing of the religious controversies that exist between Americans and as disposed to be lenient as far as the day is concerned. But he will undoubtedly go hard with the man who sent the cards and observe let none of me is discovered, as he probably will be.

The federal grand jury was impaneled yesterday morning and the neighbors were then caused to appear to answer. At ten o'clock this morning Parson Moore, a Brown attorney, however, has been excused by Judge Benone. This will mean that the remaining three who will have to work at the hearing.

A recommendation has been made by Mr. Hayes, procurator for the Knights of Columbus, and the two men are to be held in custody until the trial date when the indictment will be returned.

The military authorities have made a statement on the Campbell estate, emphasizing the fact that the house has not been prepared for the use of the commanding officer and his staff, and the department heads.

The commanding officer and his staff, and the department heads.

SCHOOL CHILDREN WANT PROTECTION FROM AUTOS

Sixty children and fifty school children since the accident speed limit for automobile traffic is to be increased to include the stretch of King street between the Kehau and the Shingehouse road. A petition has been circulated among the school children and is now in the hands of the commanding officer and his staff, and the department heads.

Two hundred and fifty little ones attending the Kehau school in white going to school schools.

Hearst Leader Holds Out Olive Branch to Democrats

JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES

Who would align the Independence League with Regular Democrats.

FREE BOOZE IS FROWNED UPON

TRAPPED BEHIND BARS, FIREMEN DIE

Authorities Take Exception to Business Methods of Orientals.

The practice of some of the oriental merchants of giving away liquor as an inducement to trade is one upon which the authorities are not inclined to look with favor, and License Inspector Fennell has taken the matter up with the view to ascertaining whether or not convictions may not be secured under net of the session laws of 1907.

There are several Chinese storekeepers who make it a practise to keep liquor on hand for the purpose of attracting trade, according to Fennell. Arrests have been made on this charge, and Fennell hopes to secure a conviction, in which case he believes he can put a stop to the practise. The section of the law in question reads as follows:

"No person holding a merchandise shall be permitted by virtue thereof to sell or furnish opium or any preparation thereof, any poisonous drug, alcohol, spirituous or other intoxicating liquor, cigars, cigarettes or tobacco, or any other article for the sale of which a license by law is provided and required."

(Continued on Page Four.)

GOVERNOR PARDONS NOTED HOMICIDE

NASHVILLE, Tennessee, April 12.—The supreme court of the State handed down a decision today affirming the prison sentence of Colonel Cooper, who shot and killed Senator Carmichael. The action of the latter court in setting Cooper's sentence was reversed.

Immediately the Governor was informed of the decision of the court, as the same, he issued a pardon for Colonel Cooper.

The trial of Cooper and his son for the murder of Senator Carmichael was one of the most sensational trials ever known to the press. The defense, however, has been exonerated by Judge Benone. This will mean that the remaining three who will have to work at the hearing.

The federal grand jury was impaneled yesterday morning and the neighbors were then caused to appear to answer. At ten o'clock this morning Parson Moore, a Brown attorney, however, has been excused by Judge Benone. This will mean that the remaining three who will have to work at the hearing.

Eight hundred and fifty little ones attending the Kehau school in white going to school schools.

HEARST READY TO COME BACK

Will Be a Democrat Again if the Party Will Accept His Line of Principles.

GRAVES BEARS MESSAGE

Jefferson Banquet Hears Speech From Independent Man for Presidency.

INDIANAPOLIS, April 14.—John Temple Graves, of New York, editor of the New York American and the candidate of the Independence League for the presidency in 1908, was the principal speaker at the Democratic banquet here last night as a part of the Jefferson Day events, proving in his speech to be the bearer of an olive branch from the Independents of the Hearst camp to the regular Democratic party.

The orator made an attempt in his speech to rend William Randolph Hearst back into the ranks of the Democrats, stating that he was authorized to announce that the Independence League members would be willing to follow Mr. Hearst back into the Democratic fold if the regular party would incorporate in its platform the principles for which the league had been contending.

Prominent Democrats from all over the Union were present at the banquet.

Modified Tariff Reform.

LOS ANGELES, April 13.—Members of the Democratic state committee held a conference here today with leading members of the party to reach a conclusion on the platform to be put before the coming state convention.

The decision is in favor of a tariff blank calling for a tariff that will not exceed the difference in the cost of production at home and abroad.

This is on practically the same lines as the platform adopted by the Republican convention of Indiana.

ROOSEVELT HEARS ALL ABOUT HENRY

Ex-Mayor Phelan Described Railroad Domination of Politics in Golden West.

PORTO MAURIZIO, April 14.—James D. Phelan, former mayor of San Francisco, was a caller upon Colonel Roosevelt yesterday before the latter departed for Venice. Mr. Phelan, after his call, stated in an interview that he had discussed with the former President the details of the defeat in San Francisco of Francis J. Heney, the candidate for district attorney.

The defeat of Heney was gone over. Mr. Phelan said, by him in order to make plain to Mr. Roosevelt how completely under the domination of the railroads was San Francisco and how complete was the political control exercised by the transportation companies.

Traveling in State.

Mr. Roosevelt and party left here for Venice in a private car, placed at his disposal by the Italian government. There was a public demonstration at the railroad depot in honor of the nation's guest at the departure of the train.

TAFT SATISFIED IN SUGAR TRUST CASES

WASHINGTON, April 14.—As a result of a conference at the White House it is now stated that it is unlikely that there will be any congressional investigation into the affairs of the sugar trust.

President Taft is said to have expressed his satisfaction at the rapid progress being made in the prosecution of the trust officials and implies that the alleged combination is restrained of trade and that the conspiracy to restrain the government in the matter of sugar production is over.

NEARER HEAVEN THAN COOK GOT

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, April 13.—Members of the expedition that reached the top of Mount McKinley report the height of the mountain as 20,500 feet.